When to Add or Change Lawn Mower Oil. Only lawn mowers with four-stroke engines have oil that can be checked and changed. You should check the level and top it off if necessary before each mowing session. If your four-stroke engine lawn mower is new, change the oil after the first three to five hours of use. As parts of a new engine wear initially, the internal movement of parts releases tiny metal filings into the oil that will cause excess wear if left there.
