Unfortunately, the realities of data science in the enterprise are far from a success story. NewVantage published a survey in January 2019 which found that 77% of businesses report challenges with business adaptation. This translates into $\frac{3}{4}$ of all data projects collecting dust rather than providing a return on the investment.

How to Make a Success Story of your Data Science Team

In order to develop effective success stories, you must be as conscientious about collecting your stories as you are about collecting surveillance data. Developing a reliable and valid success story requires a plan that includes the following:
